

A remarkable silhouette photograph of the Prince of Wales, aboard his private launch, en route to the British battleship Renown, which was his home during his stay in New York. The prince stands with one hand on the cabin.

© Paul Thompson.

Mrs. Elizabeth Du Hamel, widow of W. J. C. Du Hamel, who was a physician to President Buchanan. Mrs. Du Hamel is ninety years of age and was one of the belles of over half a century ago who entertained the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, in Washington.

By National Photo Co.

The Prince of Wales bids good-bye to America.

Wide World photos.

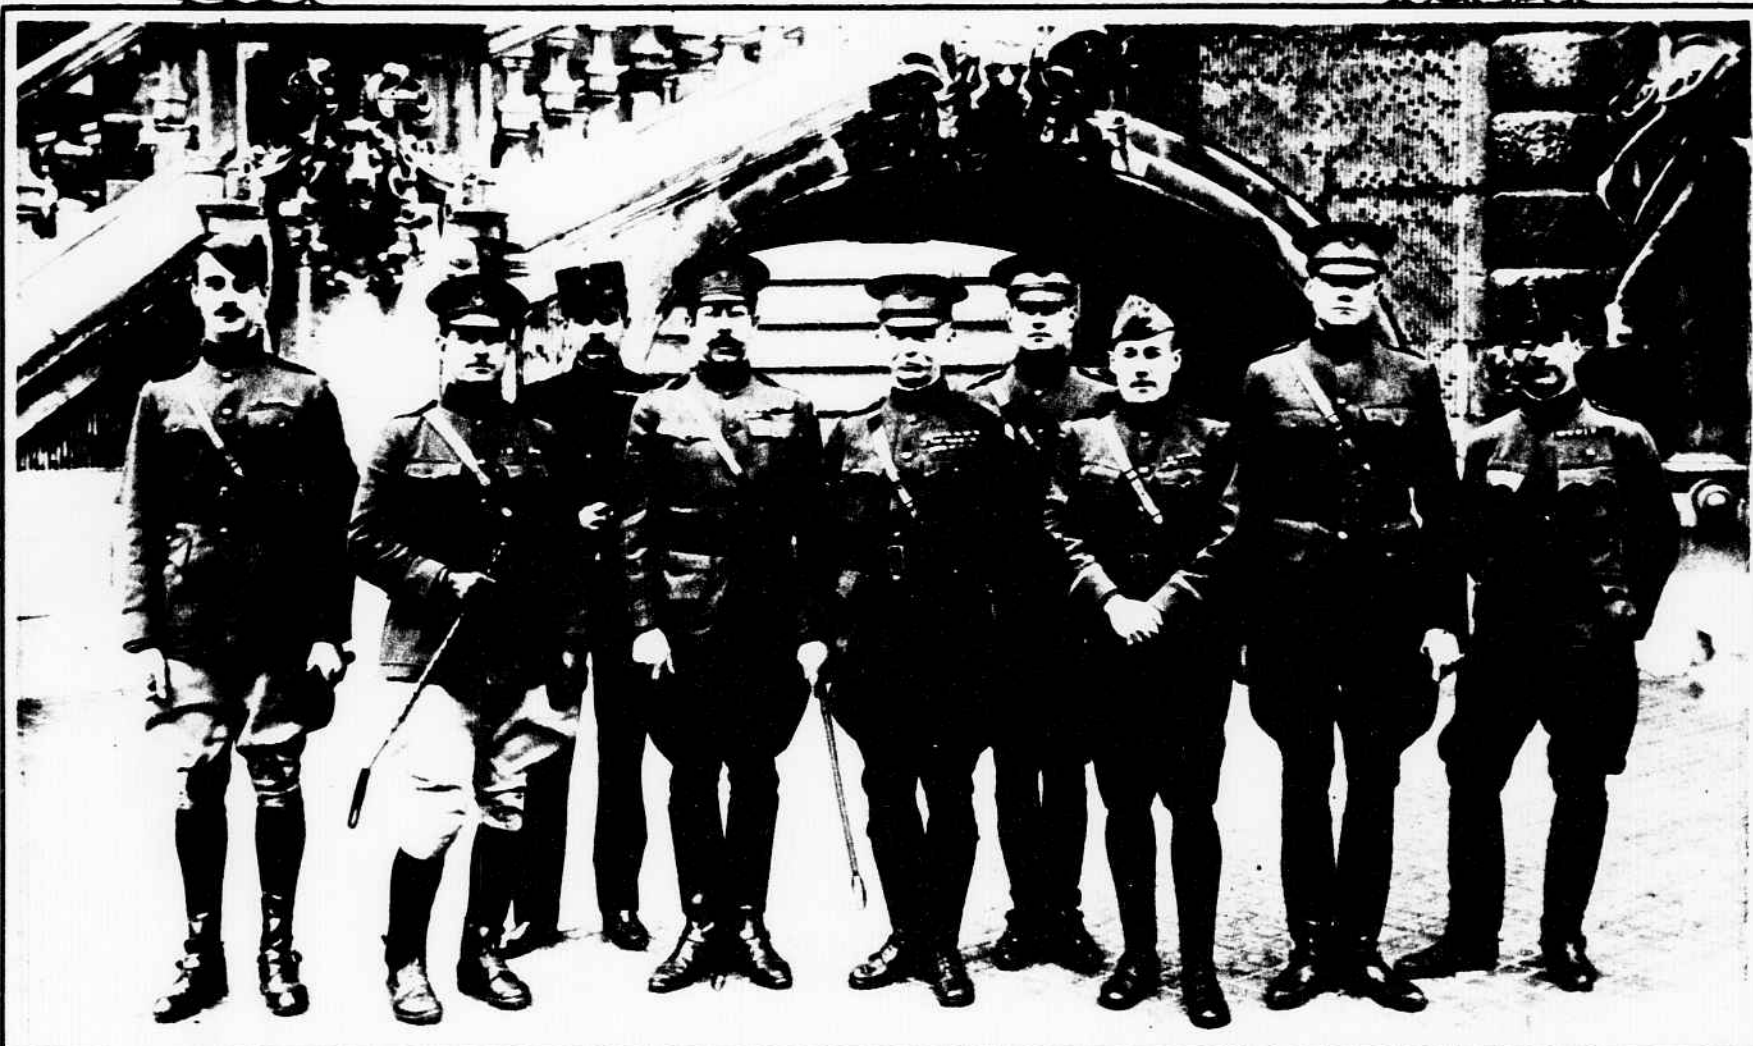

Mary Pickford, popular screen actress, calling at the White House a few days ago.

© Harris & Ewing.

Ruth Rose, with Otis Skinner, in "The Rise of Peter Barban," presented in Washington this week.

Photo by Charles H. Davis.

American representatives of interallied mission to Hungary. Gen. Harry H. Bandholtz in center. The photograph was made at the mission headquarters in Budapest.

Wide World photo.

James O. Arroll, near east relief worker, who recently returned with a thrilling story of adventures in Armenia.

Photo by Saroy.